Suicide Prevention - Looking Deeper

According to the Jason Foundation, four out of five teens display warning signs before they attempt suicide. In most cases, however, the seeds of trauma that brought them to that place were planted much earlier. Shawna Burns, licensed professional counselor and founder of Seed Digging Wellness Center, shares personal stories and case studies that show the connections

Professional Development Credit -

To obtain a certificate of completion, review and study all lessons within a course, pass all graded assessments at mastery level of 80% or higher, and complete the course survey. Credit hours are determined based on total estimated learning time. Background knowledge may allow some users to progress more quickly at times; however, you are encouraged to work through each lesson in its entirety.

Professional development credit is awarded solely at the discretion of the local school district.

EAS	 The Science of Reading Part Nine: Building Comprehension and Writing Through Vocabulary	1	1a, 3c

Vocabulary is one of the essential components of reading instruction, but it is sometimes neglected as it can be tricky. How can effective vocabulary instruction be squeezed in to an already limited schedule? Which words are the best words to teach? How many new words do students need to learn in a year?

In The Science of Reading: Building Comprehension and Writing Through Vocabulary, literacy specialist William Van Cleave leads our discussion on vocabulary and best practices that can strengthen reading and writing skills. The topics covered in this course range from the development of vocabulary and how it affects reading and writing to choosing and teaching words in a way that will benefit all students.

Building Comprehension and Writing Through Vocabulary is the ninth course in the eighteen-hour Science of Reading learning path. It was recorded on March 2, 2019 at the Main Library in Little Rock, Arkansas.
