

House Residents

"Oxford House was a life changing miracle for me. It gave me the opportunity to live my life on life's terms. Oxford House gave me a chance to reconstruct my life, learn how to live clean and sober and become a productive part of society.

Living in Oxford House surrounded by others who have the same goal to learn how to live clean and sober, gave me the opportunity to rebuild family relationships. It gave me the hope and the will and the want to do the next right thing.

Thank you for my life back Oxford House."

- Mike Linville, Oxford House President

"I have been staying at the Oxford house for three months. I was in a treatment center before I came here and would have had no where to go if it were not for the Oxford House. Staying at the House has helped me to gain structure and build relationships in my life. I am grateful for that, but mostly I am thankful for how this place has helped me to stay clean and sober."

House Residents

"I have lived at the Oxford House since March 1st, 2009. I have been drug free since October 31st, 2008, and without the Oxford house I don't know if I could say that. I can't begin to tell you how much it helps me to come home and be able to discuss my problems with other people who understand me. The advice from people who have been in the same place where I have been is priceless. I can't describe how great it is to have this support."

- Jeremy

"I have lived at the Oxford house for a year. Being here has offered me hope, security and a way to stay on track for a sober life. They housed me and offered their input on how to live a sober life. I now have a good job a safe place to live and a chance to be productive again."

- Gary

"The Oxford House has given me the opportunity to restart my life in a clean environment and has also enabled me to rebuild personal relationships. I am truly grateful that the Oxford House was available to me during my time of need and thankful to the guys here that have offered me support and friendship."

What City Officials say...

Boone County Judge

Every once in a while a community will have a story that makes such an impact, that it needs to be told over and over again. The Oxford House in Harrison, Ar. is just such a story. Nothing can be more damaging to a home or a community than a crippling addiction such as drugs or alcohol. That is why a successful recovery program is so important to have. Not only does Oxford House residents find encouragement and strength to battle the addiction and win, but it also creates an atmosphere of hope that leads the residents to lead full, productive, meaningful lives. Not only does the resident win, the whole community wins. Thank you Oxford House.

- Mike Moore

City of Harrison Mayor

"I am writing this letter in support of the Oxford House. The Oxford House is a drug and alcohol rehabilitation program started in Harrison last year. This program was initially met with resistance from area residents who were concerned with their neighbors. However, after a house was purchased and the program started, the area residents found that the residents in the Oxford House made good neighbors. The residents of the Oxford House are committed to rehabilitation and the program seems to work. I would ask you to look at their program and give it your utmost consideration."
