State of the State Address

January 15, 2013

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House and Senate, Constitutional Officers, Mr. Chief Justice, Members of the Court, and Distinguished Guests, Friends, and Fellow Arkansans:

There's been a lot written and said about how different this legislative session will be because of who you are. Term limits and redistricting have brought in many new faces, both in leadership and throughout both chambers.

There's been a lot written and said about how different this legislative session will be because of who I am. This is my 14th General Assembly as either a senator or a governor, and it will be my last. However, my instincts tell me that this session will not be that different for either of us.

We gather here for the same reasons that the previous 88 General Assemblies gathered. Our fellow Arkansans selected us and gave us the task of acting in the best interests of our fellow men and women. Our job is to show that we are up to that task, which, as always, carries with it weighty challenges, solemn responsibilities and unique opportunities.

My top priorities remain education and economic development. While we still have a lot of work to do in both areas, our accomplishments continue. For a second consecutive year, we are ranked fifth in the country for overall K-12 education. We continue to work toward bringing new jobs and investment to Arkansas, and I plan to ask your help to bring in one of the biggest projects this state has ever seen. Details on that project are still to come.

When I was sworn in as governor in 2007, I promised to attack the onerous state sales tax on groceries. With the help of three previous legislatures, the grocery tax has incrementally fallen from six percent to one-and-a-half percent. This being my last regular session, there is the urge to finish the job now. I could propose a bill to remove the rest of this tax from our books, save the one-eighth cent placed in our Constitution by voters. However, while building the budget, it became clear that I could not make such a proposal in good conscience. With the challenges we face, I don't see room to cut this tax at this time without endangering needed services. But I still want to plan for it.

There are monies that will become available to further cut the grocery tax; we're just not sure when. Chief among these is the state's ongoing payments to Pulaski County school districts after the desegregation ruling of the 1980s. We know these payments will end; the only question is timing. I propose that we pass legislation to make grocery-tax relief the first call on this money, when it comes available. That may not be for another year, two years, or even more. But when it happens, this mechanism will be in place to make the final cut in the grocery tax and put that money into the pockets of Arkansas taxpayers.

While my proposed balanced budget covers a wide range of important state services, it is clear that Medicaid will receive the lion's share of attention, and rightfully so. During the Great Recession, we avoided the steep cuts in Medicaid services suffered by other states. Our ability to prevent budget shortfalls and to attract new jobs also improved our national ranking for per-capita income. This is a difficult ranking to improve, and while we will strive to further our progress, this accomplishment has come with a price.

Our existing Medicaid programs are funded by a combination of federal and state monies. Arkansas has paid about 25 cents of every Medicaid dollar spent here, and the feds have picked up 75 cents. That ratio is based heavily on per-capita income. Now, our improvement in those rankings has reduced that federal match from a 75-25 split to a 70-30 split. Every percentage point of our state share represents about $50 million in general-revenue dollars. When combining that with other rising health-care costs, we calculated a Medicaid funding shortfall of about $300 million.

The size of our shortfall has been a moving target, as costs and utilization in a program as large as Medicaid tend to fluctuate with so many components in play. Now that we're halfway through our current fiscal year, our Department of Human Services is conducting its regular review of Medicaid programs. After looming larger and larger, the size of our Medicaid shortfall does now appear to be shrinking. It's not going to vanish, but it appears it will be more manageable. Because of a number of factors, including our first-of-its kind initiative to contain health-care costs and improve quality of care, Arkansas's Medicaid program is seeing its slowest growth in 25 years. Officials at DHS are still crunching the numbers, and we will share those numbers with you as soon as the work is complete.

We will have resources available to address this shortfall, at least in part. My proposed budget includes $90 million dollars in new, ongoing general revenue and $70 million in one-time surplus funds. Even after we calculate revised numbers, we will still be short of full funding for our existing Medicaid programs.

The vast majority of Arkansans who currently receive Medicaid services are either elderly nursing-home residents, disabled adults or children insured by ARKids First. There are no easy cuts to make around the margins. We will continue to fight fraud, waste and abuse, but that battle has been fought for years, and will not provide a significant new, untapped source of relief. Any cuts will adversely affect real people, fellow Arkansans who depend on the services that we provide. I assigned our Medicaid officials the wrenching task of deciding where they would cut if they had to. There were no simple answers. The proposed list they compiled is one that none of us wants to see come to fruition. It appears now that we will avoid the most painful of these cuts, including the Level 3 Nursing Home Care provided to thousands of elderly Arkansans.

There is another important discussion to be had this session about a very different group of Arkansans than the elderly, disabled and children who we currently insure under Medicaid. There are thousands of Arkansas families living in homes where one or both parents work, but where health insurance is not affordable. Very rarely do adults of working age qualify for Medicaid, and rising costs have led more companies to drop insurance coverage for employees. These families and individuals are often referred to as “the working poor,” and we have a real chance to provide them better access to health care.

Just last summer, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the Affordable Care Act as constitutional. The benefits, costs and insurance mandates, that you like or dislike about the law many call “Obamacare”, will continue going into effect this year and the next. However, the Court also threw a curveball. The law includes an expansion of Medicaid to give more low-income, working Americans an option for health insurance. However, the Supreme Court determined that it is up to each individual state, not the federal government, to decide whether to accept this assistance for their citizens.

Here is what we know about expanded Medicaid. It would provide health insurance for up to 250,000 Arkansans who likely don't have affordable coverage available to them now. For three years, beginning in 2014, the cost for insuring those Arkansans is picked up entirely by the federal government. A small state share kicks in beginning in 2017, and rises for three more years to a maximum of 10% in 2020. Benefits for some clients who currently receive Medicaid will shift from our current 30% share to the more generous federal-state split that accompanies expansion. The result would be immediate savings in existing general revenue. That savings could be utilized to further prevent cuts in other, current Medicaid services.

While the Affordable Care Act has new requirements for larger businesses to offer insurance and enroll employees, there are no such requirements for businesses with fewer than 50 employees. Ninety-five percent of Arkansas companies fall into this small-business category, and many of them do not or cannot offer insurance to their employees. This means that many Arkansas workers will have no affordable options open to them without expanded Medicaid.

Currently, Arkansas is ranked as one of the best places in the country to start and maintain a small business. If we have no insurance options available for our low-income workers, while more and more other states add those options, it will make us less business-friendly in comparison. Available health care has always been an important component in economic development.

Speaking of jobs, there are 40,000 Arkansans employed by hospitals in our state, and tens of thousands more work in other areas of health care. Many of these workers are seeing their hospitals struggle under increased financial pressure, and we have before us an opportunity to ease that pressure for our hospitals, and for ourselves.

If you already have private health insurance, you are paying a tax that was never approved by any government or voted on by our citizens. This is the hidden tax of uncompensated care. The tens of millions of Americans who don't have health insurance still get sick. And they still go to the hospital, usually to the more expensive emergency rooms. Hospitals don't turn away people in pain; they help them, even knowing that the bills accrued will likely go unpaid. Those costs often shift to other services and eventually manifest themselves in higher costs for health insurance. A 2009 study found that Arkansas families with health insurance pay an estimated $1,500 in their premiums every year to treat the uninsured.

Hospitals also bear the burden of uncompensated care costs, some strapped to the point where their ability to stay open comes into question. And the struggle our hospitals face is about to get tougher still. Restructuring of Medicare payments under the Affordable Care Act will mean even less money for providers. Without help, some of our hospitals in Arkansas, particularly rural hospitals, could be forced to close. This would be devastating to our small towns, both for the care of their residents and for their future economic prospects.

That doesn't need to happen. The money is available; it's our decision whether to use it. Expanded Medicaid can keep hospitals open and operational. It can give 250,000 Arkansans the chance to lead healthier, more productive lives. It can ease uncompensated care and relieve the hidden tax we all pay. It will create additional private-sector health-care jobs. We just have to say yes.

Are you worried about the eventual state share of that cost? I am, too. So I had our Medicaid officials do the math. They factored in the projected impact to current Medicaid services and looked at where the reduced uncompensated care will free up more existing funding. Using very conservative calculations, they also examined how the hundreds of millions of federal dollars being injected into our economy will bolster our other revenues. At our peak share, when the State starts picking up ten percent of the cost in 2020, the estimated annual impact to our general revenue budget is less than five million dollars a year.

Are you worried about our national debt? I am, too. I've been talking about it for years, pining for the days when a Democratic President from Arkansas and a Republican Congress came together to give us budget surpluses and put us on a path to eliminate our national debt. Those days are long gone, and something needs to be done. But it needs to be done in Washington, not here. We balance our budgets, and we don't need to sacrifice our share of federal money to other states. Refusing money to help our people may make a statement to the federal government, but will cost us more at home, will jeopardize the health of our fellow Arkansans and won't solve the problems of our national counterparts.

I've made my case for Medicaid expansion. I will continue to do so, and my administration will share whatever Medicaid information we have. The final say, however, will be yours. I hope you'll talk with your constituents and make the best decision for Arkansas.

There are many other decisions we still must make this session. We'll ensure that our schools have adequate funding to continue our push toward excellence. A recent State Supreme Court ruling raises serious questions about the long-term path of Arkansas education policy, and it may require us to act legislatively in the short term. We've asked the Court to revisit the matter, and we'll see what they decide.

As we remain mindful of our men and women in uniform protecting us at home and abroad, we can take steps to help military families who find themselves stationed in Arkansas. I am supporting legislation to join an interstate education compact to give incoming students of these families a smoother transition into our schools. Many military spouses want to contribute to the workforce while they're here, and have professionally licensed skills to offer. We'll also have a bill to help get them licensed and ready to work in Arkansas.

My proposed budget reflects our economy's continued recovery. We were able to budget new general revenue money to address education and the Medicaid shortfall. Otherwise, there are few increases in my budget. There is money to restore tanker contracts for our Forestry Commission to help with the next fire season. We will shore up Department of Correction funding that has relied too heavily on rainy-day funds in recent years. Our goal of equity between our higher-education institutions will further be addressed. And, I am proposing a modest two percent cost-of-living adjustment for our state employees after they lost their proposed adjustment in the 2011 session. While a small number of key issues will draw the most attention, we must be aware that our entire State will need our continued stewardship.

We continue to watch the bar move ever lower for efficient and effective government in Washington, D.C. Constant rancor and division show us that those who make cooperation and bipartisanship impossible only make gridlock and resentment inevitable. Endless Congressional budget battles result in half-measures that barely address problems and delay real solutions until the next big fight. That next fight will likely come while we are here in session. We must resolve not to let Washington's animosity seep in and poison our well of civil discourse. Arkansas cannot change the way things are done in D.C., but we can continue to set the example of how men and women with differing views can still come together in the best interests of our citizens.

During my years as governor, I've spoken time and again about the intangible changes we're seeing in Arkansas. How our sense of who we are as a people continues to evolve. How our fellow Americans and the rest of the world view us in a different light.

We've made progress while others have struggled just to hold steady. Our years of fiscally conservative budgeting have kept our challenges manageable, rather than unthinkable. We are no longer an afterthought for Fortune 500 companies looking to invest or international businesses seeking a North American hub.

It is imperative that we not stop now. Our investments in our State and in our people are paying dividends. You stand on the shoulders of all the Arkansans who sat in those seats before you. They came, as you have, from every part of this state, walking in these doors with varied backgrounds and intentions. Yet, whether they were Democrat or Republican, from North Arkansas or South Arkansas, representing a rural district or an urban district, they've come together through communication and cooperation to serve our people. Their history is yours to continue, just as the history you make will inspire future Legislatures.

We will keep our budgets balanced, remain focused on education and economic development and give our people opportunities to find prosperity, support and peace of mind. The legacy we build here in this Capitol will lay a stronger foundation on which we'll all build Arkansas's destiny. Let no one doubt our resolve to do our duty to those we serve today, and to remain good stewards of our State for our posterity.

The Senate reconvened after recess. The Secretary called the roll, and a quorum was present.

Subtitle

THE TORT REFORM AMENDMENT OF 2013.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE SENATE OF THE EIGHTY-NINTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF ARKANSAS AND BY THE THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, A MAJORITY OF ALL MEMBERS ELECTED TO EACH HOUSE AGREEING THERETO:

SECTION 1. This amendment shall be known and may be cited as the "Tort Reform Amendment of 2013".

SECTION 2. Article 7 of the Arkansas Constitution is amended to add additional sections to read as follows:

§ 53. Motions to dismiss.

(a) As used in this section, "frivolous" means a claim that is:

- (1) Not well grounded in fact;
- (2) Not warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law; or
- (3) Interposed for an improper purpose, including without limitation to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation.

(b)(1)(A) When a court grants a motion to dismiss for failure to state facts upon which relief can be granted and makes a finding that the claim is frivolous, the court shall award the party or parties against whom the dismissed claims were pending at the time the successful motion to dismiss was granted the costs and reasonable and necessary attorney's fees incurred in the proceedings.

(B) The awarded costs and fees shall be paid by the party or parties whose claim or claims were dismissed as a result of the granted motion to dismiss.

(2) Costs awarded shall include all reasonable and necessary litigation costs actually incurred due to the proceedings that resulted from the filing of the dismissed claims, including without limitation:

- (A) Court costs;
- (B) Attorney's fees;
- (C) Court reporter fees;
- (D) Interpreter fees; and
- (E) Guardian ad litem fees.

(c)(1) An award of costs under this section shall be made only:

(A) After all appeals of the issue of the granting of the motion to dismiss have been exhausted; and

(B) If the final outcome is the granting of the motion to dismiss.

(2) The award of costs and attorney's fees under this section shall be stayed until a final decision that is not subject to appeal is rendered.

(d)(1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the court shall not require a party to pay costs under this section in excess of a combined total of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) in any single lawsuit.

(2) When multiple parties are entitled to recover their costs from a single party under this section and those parties' combined actual costs under this section exceed ten thousand dollars ($10,000), then the court shall apportion the awarded costs to the moving parties in proportion to the amount of each moving party's incurred costs unless agreed otherwise by the moving parties.

(3) This section does not limit the award of costs as otherwise provided under Arkansas law, court rules, or at common law.

(e) This section does not apply to:

(1) Actions by or against the state, other governmental entities, or public officials acting in their official capacity or under color of law;

(2) Any claim that is dismissed by the granting of a motion to dismiss that was filed more than sixty (60) days after the moving party received service of the latest complaint, counter-complaint, or cross-complaint in which that dismissed claim was made;

(3)(A) Any claim that the party against whom the motion to dismiss was filed:

(i) Withdrew; or

(ii) In good faith amended to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

(4)(A) Except as provided in subdivision (e)(4)(B) of this section, actions by pro se litigants.

(B) Subdivision (e)(4)(A) of this section does not apply if the court also finds that the pro se litigant acted unreasonably in bringing or refusing to voluntarily withdraw the dismissed claim;

(5)(A) Except as provided in subdivision (e)(5)(B) of this section, any claim that is a good faith, nonfrivolous claim filed for the express purpose of:

(i) Extending, modifying, or reversing existing precedent, law, rule, or regulation; or

(ii) Establishing the meaning, lawfulness, or constitutionality of a law, rule, regulation, or United States or Arkansas constitutional right if the meaning, lawfulness, or constitutionality is a matter of first impression that has not been established by precedent in a published opinion by the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, a United States district court in Arkansas, or the United States Supreme Court.

(B) Subdivision (e)(5)(A) of this section does not apply unless at the time the successful motion to dismiss was filed, the party that made the dismissed claim had:

(i) Specially pleaded in its latest complaint, counter-complaint, or cross-complaint that the dismissed claim was made for one (1) of the express purposes under subdivision (e)(5)(A) of this section; and

(ii) Cited the contrary precedent or interpretation the party seeks to distinguish or overcome or stated that the issue to be decided is a matter of first impression as described in subdivision (e)(5) of this section; or

(6) Any claim for which relief could be granted under a law, a court precedent published by a court described in subdivision (e)(5) of this section, a rule, or a regulation that was in effect and applicable to the claim at the time the motion to dismiss was filed when the:

(A) Law, precedent, rule, or regulation was cited in the pleading in which the dismissed claim was made or in the response to the motion to dismiss; and

(B) Motion to dismiss the claim was granted due to the subsequent repeal, amendment, overruling, or distinguishing of that law, rule, regulation, or published court precedent.

(f) This section does not limit the ability of a court to dismiss a claim or assess costs against a party whose claim has been dismissed when permitted or required by other law, court rule, or at common law.

§ 54. Burden of proof.

(a)(1)(A) As used in this section, "same specialty as the defendant" means a medical care provider who practices the treatment or procedure at issue in the action for medical injury.

(B) "Same specialty as the defendant" does not mean a medical care provider with the same specific credentials of the defendant physician.

(2) A physician who by education, training, and experience is familiar with the treatment or procedure at issue in an action for medical injury shall be deemed to practice in the same specialty at issue.

(b) In an action for medical injury, when the asserted negligence does not lie within the jury's comprehension as a matter of common knowledge, the plaintiff shall have the burden of proving:

(1) By means of expert testimony provided only by a medical care provider of the same specialty as the defendant, the degree of skill and learning ordinarily possessed and used by members of the profession of the medical care provider in good standing, engaged in the same type of practice or specialty in the locality in which he or she practices or in a similar locality;

(2) By means of expert testimony provided only by a medical care provider of the same specialty as the defendant that the medical care provider failed to act in accordance with that standard; and

(3) By means of expert testimony provided only by a qualified medical expert that as a proximate result thereof the injured person suffered injuries that would not otherwise have occurred.

(c)(1) Without limiting the applicability of subsection (b) of this section, when the plaintiff claims that a medical care provider failed to supply adequate information to obtain the informed consent of the injured person, the plaintiff shall have the burden of proving that the:

(A) Treatment, procedure, or surgery was performed in other than an emergency situation; and

(B) Medical care provider did not supply that type of information regarding the treatment, procedure, or surgery as would customarily have been given to a patient in the position of the injured person or other persons authorized to give consent for such a patient by other medical care providers with similar training and experience at the time of the treatment, procedure, or surgery in the locality in which the medical care provider practices or in a similar locality.

(2) In determining whether the plaintiff has satisfied the requirements of subdivision (c)(1) of this section, the following matters shall be considered as material issues:

(A) Whether a person of ordinary intelligence and awareness in a position similar to that of the injured person or persons giving consent on his or her behalf could reasonably be expected to know of the risks or hazards inherent in such treatment, procedure, or surgery;

(B) Whether the injured party or the person giving consent on his or her behalf knew of the risks or hazards inherent in such treatment, procedure, or surgery;

(C) Whether the injured party would have undergone the treatment, procedure, or surgery regardless of the risk involved or whether he or she did not wish to be informed thereof; and

(D) Whether it was reasonable for the medical care provider to limit disclosure of information because such disclosure could be expected to adversely and substantially affect the injured person's condition.

§ 55. Certificate of good faith.

(a)(1) In an action for medical injury in which expert testimony is required under Arkansas law, the plaintiff or plaintiff's counsel shall file a certificate of good faith with the complaint.

(2) If the certificate is not filed with the complaint, the complaint shall be dismissed as provided in subsection (d) of this section absent a showing that the failure to file a certificate of good faith was due to:

(A) The failure of the provider to timely provide copies of the claimant's records requested under Arkansas law; or

(B) Demonstrated extraordinary cause.

(b) The certificate of good faith shall state that:

(1) The plaintiff or plaintiff's counsel has consulted with one (1) or more experts who have provided a signed written statement confirming that upon information and belief they:

(A) Are competent under Arkansas law to express an opinion or opinions in the case; and

(B) Believe, based on the information available from the medical records concerning the care and treatment of the plaintiff for the incident or incidents at issue, that there is a good-faith basis to maintain the action consistent with the requirements of Arkansas law; or

(2) The plaintiff or plaintiff's counsel has consulted with one (1) or more experts who have provided a signed written statement confirming that upon information and belief they:

(A) Are competent under Arkansas law to express an opinion or opinions in the case; and

(B)(i) Believe, based on the information available from the medical records reviewed concerning the care and treatment of the plaintiff for the incident or incidents at issue and, as appropriate, information from the plaintiff or others with knowledge of the incident or incidents at issue, that there are facts material to the resolution of the case that cannot be reasonably ascertained from the medical records or information reasonably available to the plaintiff or plaintiff's counsel and that, despite the absence of this information, there is a good-faith basis for maintaining the action as to each defendant consistent with the requirements of Arkansas law.

(ii) Refusal of the defendant to release the medical records in a timely fashion or when it is impossible for the plaintiff to obtain the medical records shall waive the requirement that the expert review the medical record prior to expert certification.

(c) Within thirty (30) days after a defendant has alleged in an answer or amended answer that a nonparty is at fault for the injuries or death of the plaintiff and expert testimony is required to prove fault as required by Arkansas law, each defendant or defendant's counsel shall file a certificate of good faith stating that:

(1) The defendant or defendant's counsel has consulted with one (1) or more experts, which may include the defendant's filing the certificate of good faith, who have provided a signed written statement confirming that upon information and belief they:

(A) Are competent under Arkansas law to express an opinion or opinions in the case; and

(B) Believe, based on the information reviewed concerning the care and treatment of the plaintiff for the incident or incidents at issue, that there is a good-faith basis to allege such a fault against another consistent with the requirements of Arkansas law; or

(2) The defendant or defendant's counsel has consulted with one (1) or more medical experts, which may include the defendant's filing the certificate of good faith, who have provided a signed written statement confirming that upon information and belief they:

(A) Are competent under Arkansas law to express an opinions or opinions in the case; and

(B) Believe, based on the information reviewed concerning the care and treatment of the plaintiff for the incident or incidents at issue, that:

(i) There are facts material to the resolution of the case that cannot be reasonably ascertained from the information reasonably available to the defendant or defendant's counsel; and

(ii) Despite the absence of the material facts under subdivision (c)(2)(B)(i) of this section, there is a good-faith basis for alleging such a fault against another, whether already a party to the action or not, consistent with the requirements of Arkansas law.

(d)(1) The failure of a plaintiff to file a certificate of good faith in compliance with this section shall, upon motion, make the action subject to dismissal with prejudice.

(2) The failure of a defendant to file a certificate of good faith in compliance with this section alleging the fault of a nonparty shall, upon motion, make such allegations subject to being stricken with prejudice unless the plaintiff consents to waive compliance with this section.

(3) If the allegations are stricken, a defendant, except for a defendant who complied with this section, cannot assert, and neither shall the judge nor jury consider, the fault, if any, of those identified by the allegations.

(4) The court may, upon motion, grant an extension within which to file a certificate of good faith if the court determines that a health care provider who has medical records relevant to the issues in the case has failed to timely produce medical records upon timely request, or for other good cause shown.

§ 56. Notice of claim for medical injury.

(a) An action for medical injury shall not be commenced until at least sixty (60) days after service of a written notice of the alleged claim for medical injury upon the person or persons alleged to be liable, by certified or registered mail, to the last known address of the person or persons allegedly liable.

(b) If the written notice under subsection (a) of this section is served within sixty (60) days of the expiration of the period for bringing suit, the time for commencement of the action shall be extended one hundred and eighty (180) days from the service of the notice.

(c)(1) Except as provided in subdivision (c)(2) of this section, during the one-hundred-eighty-day extension of the statute of limitations under subsection (b) of this section a potential party to the alleged claim or an attorney for a potential party to the alleged claim shall not have ex parte communication with the claimant's treating medical care providers.

(2) A potential party to the alleged claim or an attorney for a potential party to the alleged claim may request medical records from the claimant's treating medical care providers upon proper authorization.

§ 57. Limitations on the amount of punitive damages.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a punitive damages award for each plaintiff in a civil action shall not be more than nine (9) times the amount of compensatory damages awarded in the civil action.

(b) Subsection (a) of this section does not apply when the finder of fact:

(1) Determines by clear and convincing evidence that, at the time of the injury, the defendant intentionally pursued a course of conduct that shocks the conscience for the purpose of causing serious bodily injury or death; and

(2) Determines that the defendant's conduct did, in fact, result in serious bodily injury or death.

§ 58. Apportionment of tort responsibility.

(a) As used in this section:

(1) "Contributory fault" includes contributory negligence, misuse of a product, unreasonable failure to avoid or mitigate harm, and assumption of risk unless the risk is expressly assumed in a legally enforceable release or similar agreement;

(2) "Person" means an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, public corporation, government, or governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality, or any other legal or commercial entity;

(3) "Released person" means a person that would be liable for damages to a claimant for personal injury or harm to property if the person had not been discharged from liability under subsection (g) of this section; and

(4) "Responsibility", with respect to a claim for damages for personal injury or harm to property, means the legal consequences of an act or omission that is the basis for liability or a defense in whole or in part.

(b)(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b)(2) and (b)(3) of this section, in an action seeking damages for personal injury or harm to property based on negligence or on any other claim for which the claimant may be subject to a defense in whole or part based on contributory fault, any contributory fault chargeable to the claimant diminishes the amount that the claimant otherwise would be entitled to recover as compensatory damages for the injury or harm by the percentage of responsibility assigned to the claimant pursuant to subsection (c) of this section.

(2) If the claimant's contributory fault is equal to or greater than the combined responsibility of all other parties and released persons whose responsibility is determined to have caused personal injury to or harm to property of the claimant, the claimant may not recover any damages.

(3) A party is responsible for the fault of another person or entity or for the payment of a proportionate share of another person or entity if the other person or entity was acting as an agent or servant of the party.

(3) In a jury trial, the court shall instruct the jury regarding the legal effect of its answers to interrogatories, made under subsection (c) of this section, on a claimant's right to recover damages under subsection (b)(2) of this section.

(c)(1) In an action to recover damages for personal injury or harm to property involving the responsibility of more than one party or a released person, the court shall instruct the jury to answer special interrogatories or, if there is no jury, make findings:

(A) Stating the amount of damages that a claimant would be entitled to recover if any contributory fault were disregarded;

(B) Stating, as to each claim, the percentage of the total responsibility of all the parties and released persons attributed to each claimant, defendant, and released person that caused the injury or harm;

(C) Regarding whether any of the parties or released persons acted in concert or with an intent to cause personal injury or harm to property; and

(D) Regarding any other issue of fact fairly raised by the evidence which is necessary to make a determination under subsection (d) of this section or enter judgment under subsection (e) of this section.

(2) In determining percentages of responsibility, the trier of fact shall consider:

(A) The nature of the conduct of each party and released person determined to be responsible; and

(B) The extent of the causal relation between the conduct and the damages claimed.

(3) The court shall determine the extent to which the responsibility of one party, which is based on the act or omission of another party, warrants that the parties be treated as a single party for the purpose of submitting interrogatories to the jury or making findings under subdivision (c)(1) of this section.

(d)(1) After the trier of fact has answered interrogatories or made findings under subsection (c) of this section, the court shall determine, in accordance with the percentages of responsibility found:

(A) The monetary amount of any award of damages to a claimant;

(B) The amount of the several share for which each party found liable is responsible; and

(C) Any amount attributable to a released person.

(2)(A) After the court has made its determinations pursuant to subsection (d)(1) of this section, a claimant, no later than ninety (90) days after the entry of judgment for the plaintiff, may move the court to determine whether all or part of the amount of the several share for which a party is liable will not be reasonably collectible and request reallocation.

(B) If the court based on a preponderance of the evidence determines that the party's share will not be reasonably collectible, the court shall make findings reallocating the uncollectible share severally to the other parties, including the claimant, and any released person.

(C) Reallocation shall be made in the proportion that each party's and released person's respective percentage of responsibility bears to the total of the percentages of responsibility attributed to the parties, including the claimant, and any released person but not including the percentage being reallocated.

(3)(A) A party whose liability is reallocated remains liable to a claimant for any additional share of responsibility allocated to the claimant.

(B) A party that discharges an additional share of responsibility allocated to it under subdivision (d)(2) of this section has a right of reimbursement from the party from which the share was reallocated.

(C) Upon motion, the court in the judgment entered under subsection (e) of this section shall declare the rights and obligations resulting from the reallocation, including any rights and obligations with regard to subrogation or a secured position.

(D) If any party to whom reallocation has been made holds a secured position with regard to the share reallocated, each party to whom reallocation has been made has a proportionate share in the secured position.

(E) Any amount recovered under this subsection from a party whose liability has been reallocated shall be distributed to each of the parties to whom the reallocation was made in the same proportion as the original reallocation.

(4) Reallocation does not make a released person liable for any reallocated share of responsibility unless the release or other agreement so provides.

(5) If a motion for reallocation is made, any party may conduct discovery regarding any issue relevant to the motion.

(e)(1) After determining an award of damages to a claimant and the amount of the several share, including any reallocated share, for which each party found liable is responsible, the court shall enter judgment severally against each party adjudged liable, except in the following situations:

(A) If two or more parties adjudged liable acted in concert or with an intent to cause personal injury to, or harm to property of, the claimant, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally against the parties for their joint share;

(B) If a party is adjudged liable for failing to prevent another party from intentionally causing personal injury to, or harm to property of, the claimant, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally against the parties for their combined shares of responsibility;

(C) If a party is adjudged liable for the act or omission of another party under subdivision (c)(3) of this section, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally against the parties for their joint share; and

(D) If Arkansas law, other than this amendment, so requires, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally or otherwise conform the judgment to the statute.

(2) If a court grants a motion for reallocation pursuant to subsection (d) of this section after judgment is entered, the court shall modify the judgment to declare the rights and obligations resulting from the reallocation, including any rights and obligations with regard to subrogation or a secured position.

(f)(1)(A) Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (f)(2) of this section, a party that is jointly and severally liable with one or more other parties under this amendment has a right of contribution from another party jointly liable for any amount the party pays in excess of the several amount for which the party is responsible.

(B) A party against which contribution is sought is not liable for more than the monetary amount of the party's several share of responsibility determined pursuant to subsection (d) of this amendment.

(2) A party that is adjudged liable for the act or omission of another party under subdivision (e)(1)(C) of this section has a right of indemnification from the other party.

(3) A party that is subject to liability for injury to, or harm to property of, a claimant under this amendment has a right to:

(A) Join a person that is also subject to liability to the claimant for all or part of the same injury or harm if the claimant has not sued the person; and

(B) Seek contribution or indemnity, whichever is appropriate, from another person whose liability is not determined in the proceeding in which the party is adjudged liable if the other person is responsible for all or part of the claimant's injury or harm.

(4) A claim for contribution or indemnity may be asserted in the original action or in a separate action.

(g)(1)(A) A release, covenant not to sue, covenant not to execute a judgment, or similar agreement by a claimant and person subject to liability discharges the person from liability to the claimant to the extent provided in the agreement and from liability for contribution to any other person subject to liability to the claimant for the same injury or harm.

(B) The agreement does not discharge any other person subject to liability upon the same claim unless the agreement so provides.

(2) The amount of the claim of the releasing person under subdivision (g)(1) of this section against other persons jointly and severally liable for the same injury or harm for which the released person would have been liable is reduced by the percentage of responsibility attributed to the released person pursuant to subsection (c) of this amendment.

(3) A release, covenant not to sue, covenant not to execute a judgment, or similar agreement extinguishes any claim for contribution or indemnity that the released person would have had against another person that would have been jointly and severally liable with the released person.

"SECTION 3. EMERGENCY CLAUSE. It is found and determined by the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas that access to medical care is becoming increasingly more difficulty in this state; that difficulties with access to medical care may reach crisis levels as recent changes in federal law increase the demand for medical care without an accompanying increase in the number of medical providers in the state; and that this act is immediately necessary to ensure broad access to medical care by reducing disincentives to the entry of medical care providers into Arkansas. Therefore, an emergency is declared to exist, and this act being immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, and safety shall become effective on:

(1) The date of its approval by the Governor;

(2) If the bill is neither approved nor vetoed by the Governor, the expiration of the period of time during which the Governor may veto the bill; or

"SECTION 2. Arkansas Code § 6-18-206 is repealed.

~~6-18-206. Public school choice.~~

~~(a)(1) This section may be referred to and cited as the "Arkansas Public School Choice Act of 1989".~~

~~(2) The General Assembly finds that the students in Arkansas's public schools and their parents will become more informed about and involved in the public educational system if students and their parents or guardians are provided greater freedom to determine the most effective school for meeting their individual educational needs. There is no right school for every student, and permitting students to choose from among different schools with differing assets will increase the likelihood that some marginal students will stay in school and that other, more motivated students will find their full academic potential.~~

~~(3) The General Assembly further finds that giving more options to parents and students with respect to where the students attend public school will increase the responsiveness and effectiveness of the state's schools since teachers, administrators, and school board members will have added incentive to satisfy the educational needs of the students who reside in the district.~~

~~(4) The General Assembly therefore finds that these benefits of enhanced quality and effectiveness in our public schools justify permitting a student to apply for admission to a school in any district beyond the one in which the student resides, provided that the transfer by this student would not adversely affect the desegregation of either district.~~

~~(5) A public school choice program is hereby established to enable any student to attend a school in a district in which the student does not reside, subject to the restrictions contained in this section.~~

~~(b)(1)(A) Before a student may attend a school in a nonresident district, the student's parent or guardian must submit an application on a form approved by the Department of Education to the nonresident district by submitting the application to the superintendent of the school district. This application must be postmarked not later than July 1 of the year in which the student would begin the fall semester at the nonresident district.~~

~~(B)(i) Within thirty (30) days of the receipt of an application from a nonresident student seeking admission under the terms of this section, the superintendent of the nonresident district shall notify the parent or guardian and the resident district in writing as to whether the student's application has been accepted or rejected.~~

~~(ii) If the application is rejected, the superintendent of the nonresident district must state in the notification letter the reason for rejection.~~

~~(iii) If the application is accepted, the superintendent of the nonresident district shall state in the notification letter:~~

~~(a) An absolute deadline for the student to enroll in the district, or the acceptance notification is null; and~~

~~(b) Any instructions for the renewal procedures established by the district.~~

~~(iv)(a) Any student who accepts a school choice transfer may return to his or her resident district during the course of the school year.~~

~~(b) If a transferred student returns to his or her resident district during the school year, the student's transfer is voided, and the student shall reapply for any future transfer.~~

~~(2)(A) The school board of directors of every public school district must adopt by resolution specific standards for acceptance and rejection of applications. Standards may include the capacity of a program, class, grade level, or school building. Nothing in this section requires a school district to add teachers, staff, or classrooms or in any way to exceed the requirements and standards established by existing law. Standards shall include a statement that priority will be given to applications from siblings or stepsiblings residing in the same residence or household of students already attending the district by choice. Standards may not include an applicant's previous academic achievement, athletic or other extracurricular ability, handicapping conditions, English proficiency level, or previous disciplinary proceedings except that an expulsion from another district may be included pursuant to § 6-18-510.~~

~~(B)(i) Any student who applies for a transfer under this section and is denied a transfer by the nonresident district may request a hearing before the State Board of Education to reconsider the transfer.~~

~~(ii) A request for a hearing before the state board shall be in writing and shall be postmarked no later than ten (10) days after notice of rejection of the application under subdivision (b)(1)(B) of this section is received by the student.~~

~~(3) Each school district shall participate in public school choice consistent with this section.~~

~~(c) The responsibility for transportation of a student from the student's resident school district to a nonresident school district shall be borne by the student or the student's parents. The nonresident school district may enter into a written agreement with the student, the student's parents, or the resident school district to provide transportation to or from any place in the resident district to the nonresident district, or both.~~

~~(d)(1) A nonresident district shall accept credits toward graduation that were awarded by another district.~~

~~(2) The nonresident district shall award a diploma to a nonresident student if the student meets the nonresident district's graduation requirements.~~

~~(e) For purposes of determining a school district's state equalization aid, the nonresident student shall be counted as a part of the average daily membership of the district to which the student has transferred.~~

~~(f) The provisions of this section and all student choice options created in this section are subject to the following limitations:~~

~~(1) No student may transfer to a nonresident district where the percentage of enrollment for the student's race exceeds that percentage in the student's resident district except in the circumstances set forth in subdivisions (f)(2) and (3) of this section;~~

~~(2)(A) A transfer to a district is exempt from the restriction set forth in subdivision (f)(1) of this section if the transfer is between two (2) districts within a county and if the minority percentage in the student's race and majority percentages of school enrollment in both the resident and nonresident district remain within an acceptable range of the county's overall minority percentage in the student's race and majority percentages of school population as set forth by the department.~~

~~(B)(i) By the filing deadline each year, the department shall compute the minority percentage in the student's race and majority percentages of each county's public school population from the October Annual School Report and shall then compute the acceptable range of variance from those percentages for school districts within each county.~~

~~(ii)(a) In establishing the acceptable range of variance, the department is directed to use the remedial guideline established in Little Rock School District v. Pulaski County Special School District of allowing an overrepresentation or underrepresentation of black or white students of one-fourth ($\frac{1}{4}$) or twenty-five percent (25%) of the county's racial balance.~~

~~(b) In establishing the acceptable range of variance for school choice, the department is directed to use the remedial guideline of allowing an overrepresentation or underrepresentation of minority or majority students of one-fourth ($\frac{1}{4}$) or twenty-five percent (25%) of the county's racial balance;~~

~~(3) A transfer is exempt from the restriction set forth in subdivision (f)(1) of this section if each school district affected by the transfer does not have a critical mass of minority percentage in the student's race of more than ten percent (10%) of any single race;~~

~~(4) In any instance in which the provisions of this subsection would result in a conflict with a desegregation court order or a district's court-approved desegregation plan, the terms of the order or plan shall govern;~~

~~(5) The department shall adopt appropriate rules and regulations to implement the provisions of this section; and~~

~~(6) The department shall monitor school districts for compliance with this section.~~

~~(g) The state board shall be authorized to resolve disputes arising under subsections (b)-(f) of this section.~~

~~(h) The superintendent of the district shall cause public announcements to be made over the broadcast media and in the print media at such times and in such a manner as to inform parents or guardians of students in adjoining districts of the availability of the program, the application deadline, and the requirements and procedure for nonresident students to participate in the program.~~

~~(i)(1) All superintendents of school districts shall report to the Equity Assistance Center on an annual basis the race, gender, and other pertinent information needed to properly monitor compliance with the provisions of this section.~~

~~(2) The reports may be on those forms that are prescribed by the department, or the data may be submitted electronically by the district using a format authorized by the department.~~

~~(3) The department may withhold state aid from any school district that fails to file its report each year or fails to file any other information with a published deadline requested from school districts by the Equity Assistance Center so long as thirty (30) calendar days are given between the request for the information and the published deadline except when the request comes from a member or committee of the General Assembly.~~

~~(4) A copy of the report shall be provided to the Joint Interim Oversight Committee on Educational Reform.~~

~~(j)(1) The department shall develop a proposed set of rules as it determines is necessary or desirable to amend the provisions of this section.~~

~~(2) The department shall present the proposed rules in written form to the House Interim Committee on Education and the Senate Interim Committee on Education by October 1, 2006, for review and consideration by the committees for possible amendments to this section and to the Arkansas Public School Choice Program by the Eighty-sixth General Assembly.~~

SECTION 3. Arkansas Code Title 6, Chapter 18, Subchapter 2, is amended to add an additional section to read as follows:

6-18-231. Public school choice.

(a) This section shall be known and may be cited as the "Public School Choice Act of 2013".

(b) The General Assembly finds that:

(1) The students in Arkansas's public schools and their parents will become more informed about and involved in the public educational system if students and their parents or guardians are provided greater freedom to determine the most effective school for meeting their individual educational needs. There is no right school for every student, and permitting students to choose from among different schools with differing assets will increase the likelihood that some at-risk students will stay in school and that other, more motivated students will find their full academic potential;

(2) Giving more options to parents and students with respect to where the students attend public school will increase the responsiveness and effectiveness of the state's schools because teachers, administrators, and school board members will have added incentive to satisfy the educational needs of the students who reside in the district; and

(3) These benefits of enhanced quality and effectiveness in our public schools justify permitting a student to apply for admission to a school in any school district beyond the one in which the student resides, provided that the transfer by the student does not conflict with an enforceable judicial decree or court order remedying the effects of past racial segregation in the school district.

(c) A public school choice program is hereby established to enable any student to attend a school in a district in which the student does not reside, subject to the restrictions contained in this section.

(d)(1)(A) If a student seeks to attend a school in a nonresident district, the student's parent or guardian shall submit an application on a form approved by the Department of Education to the superintendent of the nonresident school district not later than July 1 of the year in which the student seeks to begin the fall semester at the nonresident district.

(B)(i) Within thirty (30) days of the receipt of an application from a nonresident student seeking admission under this section, the superintendent of the nonresident district shall notify the parent or guardian and the resident district in writing as to whether the student's application has been accepted or rejected.

(ii) If the application is rejected, the superintendent of the nonresident district shall state in the notification letter the reason for rejection.

(iii) If the application is accepted, the superintendent of the nonresident district shall state in the notification letter:

(a) A deadline for the student to enroll in the district, after which the acceptance notification is null; and

(b) Instructions for the renewal procedures established by the district.

(iv)(a) A student who accepts a school choice transfer may return to his or her resident district during the school year.

(b) If a transferred student returns to his or her resident district during the school year, the student's transfer is voided, and the student shall reapply if seeking a future transfer.

(2)(A)(i) The board of directors of a public school district shall adopt by resolution specific standards for acceptance and rejection of applications. Standards may include the capacity of a program, class, grade level, or school building.

(ii) This section does not require a school district to add teachers, staff, or classrooms or to exceed the requirements and standards established by existing law.

(iii) Standards shall include a statement that priority will be given to applications from siblings or stepsiblings residing in the same household of students already attending the district by choice.

(iv) Standards may not include an applicant's previous academic achievement, athletic or other extracurricular ability, disability, English proficiency level, or previous disciplinary proceedings except that an expulsion from another district may be included under § 6-18-510.

(B)(i) A student who is denied a transfer under this section by the nonresident district may request a hearing before the State Board of Education to reconsider the transfer.

(ii) A request for a hearing before the state board shall be in writing and shall be postmarked no later than ten (10) days after the student receives a notice of rejection under subdivision (d)(1)(B) of this section is received by the student.

(3) A school district shall participate in public school choice under this section.

(e)(1) Transportation of a student from the student's resident school district to a nonresident school district is the responsibility of the student.

(2) The nonresident school district may enter into a written agreement with the student, the student's parents, or the resident school district to provide transportation to or from any place in the resident district to the nonresident district.

(f)(1) A nonresident district shall accept credits toward graduation that were awarded by the resident district or another district.

(2) The nonresident district shall award a diploma to a nonresident student if the student meets the nonresident district's graduation requirements.

(g) For purposes of determining a school district's state foundation funding aid, the nonresident student shall be counted as a part of the average daily membership of the district to which the student has transferred.

(h) The state board may resolve disputes arising under subsections (d) and (e) of this section.

(i) A school district shall make public announcements over the broadcast media and in the print media to inform parents or guardians of students in adjoining districts of the availability of the program, the application deadline, and the requirements and procedure for nonresident students to participate in the program.

(j) If this section results in a conflict with an enforceable judicial decree or court order remedying the effects of past racial segregation, the enforceable judicial decree or court order shall govern.

(k) The transfer of a student under the Arkansas Public School Choice Act of 1989, § 6-18-206 [repealed], is not voided by this section and shall be treated as a transfer under this section.

SECTION 4. EMERGENCY CLAUSE. It is found and determined by the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas that certain provisions of the Arkansas Public School Choice Act of 1989, § 6-18-206, have been found to be unconstitutional by a federal court; that thousands of public school students are currently attending public schools in nonresident school districts under that law; that there is now uncertainty about the viability of those transfers and future transfers; that this act repeals the disputed provisions of that law while preserving the opportunity for public school choice; and that this act is immediately necessary to resolve the uncertainty in the law before the 2013-2014 school year and preserve existing student transfers. Therefore, an emergency is declared to exist, and this act being immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, and safety shall become effective on:

- (1) The date of its approval by the Governor;
- (2) If the bill is neither approved nor vetoed by the Governor, the expiration of the period of time during which the Governor may veto the bill; or
- (3) If the bill is vetoed by the Governor and the veto is overridden, the date the last house overrides the veto."

Dear Members of the Arkansas Senate:

February is designated by the President as National African-American History Month. It is a time for honoring and exploring the culture and history of Black Americans and recognizing that our society's rich diversity is one of our greatest strengths. It is also an opportunity to unite around the fundamental values that all Americans share and to work to ensure that our laws, our actions, and our words honor the rights and dignity of every human being.

This year, we are joined in partnership with the Arkansas Department of Heritage and the Mosaic Templars Cultural Center. Our program will place a special emphasis on African-American business owners/entrepreneurs and their contributions in helping to shape our state in the past, present, and future. In the spirit of pride and dignity, I invite you to join me to share in a special celebration of tribute and entertainment on Thursday, February 21, 2013, at 10:00 a.m. at the Mosaic Templars Cultural Center. I hope to see you there.

Sincerely,

§ 57. Limitations on the amount of punitive damages.

(a) Except as provided in subsection (b) of this section, a punitive damages award for each plaintiff in a civil action shall not be more than nine (9) times the amount of compensatory damages awarded in the civil action.

(b) Subsection (a) of this section does not apply when the finder of fact:

(1) Determines by clear and convincing evidence that, at the time of the injury, the defendant intentionally pursued a course of conduct that shocks the conscience for the purpose of causing serious bodily injury or death; and

(2) Determines that the defendant's conduct did, in fact, result in serious bodily injury or death.

§ 58. Apportionment of tort responsibility.

(a) As used in this section:

(1) "Contributory fault" includes contributory negligence, misuse of a product, unreasonable failure to avoid or mitigate harm, and assumption of risk unless the risk is expressly assumed in a legally enforceable release or similar agreement;

(2) "Person" means an individual, corporation, business trust, estate, trust, partnership, limited liability company, association, joint venture, public corporation, government, or governmental subdivision, agency, or instrumentality, or any other legal or commercial entity;

(3) "Released person" means a person that would be liable for damages to a claimant for personal injury or harm to property if the person had not been discharged from liability under subsection (g) of this section; and

(4) "Responsibility", with respect to a claim for damages for personal injury or harm to property, means the legal consequences of an act or omission that is the basis for liability or a defense in whole or in part.

(b)(1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b)(2) and (b)(3) of this section, in an action seeking damages for personal injury or harm to property based on negligence or on any other claim for which the claimant may be subject to a defense in whole or part based on contributory fault, any contributory fault chargeable to the claimant diminishes the amount that the claimant otherwise would be entitled to recover as compensatory damages for the injury or harm by the percentage of responsibility assigned to the claimant pursuant to subsection (c) of this section.

(2) If the claimant's contributory fault is equal to or greater than the combined responsibility of all other parties and released persons whose responsibility is determined to have caused personal injury to or harm to property of the claimant, the claimant may not recover any damages.

(3) A party is responsible for the fault of another person or entity or for the payment of a proportionate share of another person or entity if the other person or entity was acting as an agent or servant of the party.

(3) In a jury trial, the court shall instruct the jury regarding the legal effect of its answers to interrogatories, made under subsection (c) of this section, on a claimant's right to recover damages under subsection (b)(2) of this section.

(c)(1) In an action to recover damages for personal injury or harm to property involving the responsibility of more than one party or a released person, the court shall instruct the jury to answer special interrogatories or, if there is no jury, make findings:

(A) Stating the amount of damages that a claimant would be entitled to recover if any contributory fault were disregarded;

(B) Stating, as to each claim, the percentage of the total responsibility of all the parties and released persons attributed to each claimant, defendant, and released person that caused the injury or harm;

(C) Regarding whether any of the parties or released persons acted in concert or with an intent to cause personal injury or harm to property; and

(D) Regarding any other issue of fact fairly raised by the evidence which is necessary to make a determination under subsection (d) of this section or enter judgment under subsection (e) of this section.

(2) In determining percentages of responsibility, the trier of fact shall consider:

(A) The nature of the conduct of each party and released person determined to be responsible; and

(B) The extent of the causal relation between the conduct and the damages claimed.

(3) The court shall determine the extent to which the responsibility of one party, which is based on the act or omission of another party, warrants that the parties be treated as a single party for the purpose of submitting interrogatories to the jury or making findings under subdivision (c)(1) of this section.

(d)(1) After the trier of fact has answered interrogatories or made findings under subsection (c) of this section, the court shall determine, in accordance with the percentages of responsibility found:

(A) The monetary amount of any award of damages to a claimant;

(B) The amount of the several share for which each party found liable is responsible; and

(C) Any amount attributable to a released person.

(2)(A) After the court has made its determinations pursuant to subsection (d)(1) of this section, a claimant, no later than ninety (90) days after the entry of judgment for the plaintiff, may move the court to determine whether all or part of the amount of the several share for which a party is liable will not be reasonably collectible and request reallocation.

(B) If the court based on a preponderance of the evidence determines that the party's share will not be reasonably collectible, the court shall make findings reallocating the uncollectible share severally to the other parties, including the claimant, and any released person.

(C) Reallocation shall be made in the proportion that each party's and released person's respective percentage of responsibility bears to the total of the percentages of responsibility attributed to the parties, including the claimant, and any released person but not including the percentage being reallocated.

(3)(A) A party whose liability is reallocated remains liable to a claimant for any additional share of responsibility allocated to the claimant.

(B) A party that discharges an additional share of responsibility allocated to it under subdivision (d)(2) of this section has a right of reimbursement from the party from which the share was reallocated.

(C) Upon motion, the court in the judgment entered under subsection (e) of this section shall declare the rights and obligations resulting from the reallocation, including any rights and obligations with regard to subrogation or a secured position.

(D) If any party to whom reallocation has been made holds a secured position with regard to the share reallocated, each party to whom reallocation has been made has a proportionate share in the secured position.

(E) Any amount recovered under this subsection from a party whose liability has been reallocated shall be distributed to each of the parties to whom the reallocation was made in the same proportion as the original reallocation.

(4) Reallocation does not make a released person liable for any reallocated share of responsibility unless the release or other agreement so provides.

(5) If a motion for reallocation is made, any party may conduct discovery regarding any issue relevant to the motion.

(e)(1) After determining an award of damages to a claimant and the amount of the several share, including any reallocated share, for which each party found liable is responsible, the court shall enter judgment severally against each party adjudged liable, except in the following situations:

(A) If two or more parties adjudged liable acted in concert or with an intent to cause personal injury to, or harm to property of, the claimant, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally against the parties for their joint share;

(B) If a party is adjudged liable for failing to prevent another party from intentionally causing personal injury to, or harm to property of, the claimant, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally against the parties for their combined shares of responsibility;

(C) If a party is adjudged liable for the act or omission of another party under subdivision (c)(3) of this section, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally against the parties for their joint share; and

(D) If Arkansas law, other than this amendment, so requires, the court shall enter judgment jointly and severally or otherwise conform the judgment to the statute.

(2) If a court grants a motion for reallocation pursuant to subsection (d) of this section after judgment is entered, the court shall modify the judgment to declare the rights and obligations resulting from the reallocation, including any rights and obligations with regard to subrogation or a secured position.

(f)(1)(A) Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (f)(2) of this section, a party that is jointly and severally liable with one or more other parties under this amendment has a right of contribution from another party jointly liable for any amount the party pays in excess of the several amount for which the party is responsible.

(B) A party against which contribution is sought is not liable for more than the monetary amount of the party's several share of responsibility determined pursuant to subsection (d) of this amendment.

(2) A party that is adjudged liable for the act or omission of another party under subdivision (e)(1)(C) of this section has a right of indemnification from the other party.

(3) A party that is subject to liability for injury to, or harm to property of, a claimant under this amendment has a right to:

(A) Join a person that is also subject to liability to the claimant for all or part of the same injury or harm if the claimant has not sued the person; and

(B) Seek contribution or indemnity, whichever is appropriate, from another person whose liability is not determined in the proceeding in which the party is adjudged liable if the other person is responsible for all or part of the claimant's injury or harm.

(4) A claim for contribution or indemnity may be asserted in the original action or in a separate action.

(g)(1)(A) A release, covenant not to sue, covenant not to execute a judgment, or similar agreement by a claimant and person subject to liability discharges the person from liability to the claimant to the extent provided in the agreement and from liability for contribution to any other person subject to liability to the claimant for the same injury or harm.

(B) The agreement does not discharge any other person subject to liability upon the same claim unless the agreement so provides.

(2) The amount of the claim of the releasing person under subdivision (g)(1) of this section against other persons jointly and severally liable for the same injury or harm for which the released person would have been liable is reduced by the percentage of responsibility attributed to the released person pursuant to subsection (c) of this amendment.

(3) A release, covenant not to sue, covenant not to execute a judgment, or similar agreement extinguishes any claim for contribution or indemnity that the released person would have had against another person that would have been jointly and severally liable with the released person."

Dear Senator Lamoureux,

I wanted to inform each of you that this morning, in my capacity as Governor of the State of Arkansas, I signed Senate Bill 131 into law. This Bill will now be known as Act 145.

Having been an outspoken advocate for Second Amendment rights, I felt passionately that there should be no delays in signing this bill into law. Within the bill is an emergency clause which states that once this bill is signed the State of Arkansas can no longer publicly release records concerning persons licensed to carry a concealed handgun or those applying for such a license. The release of such records is an invasion of privacy and threatens the safety and property of the persons identified.

I appreciate Senator Bruce Holland, the co-sponsors and the 80% of the 89th General Assembly who supported this bill, in their effort to protect the privacy of the citizens of Arkansas.

Sincerely,

" SECTION 5. Arkansas Code § 23-110-405, concerning wagering at a horse racing track, is amended to add an additional subsection to read as follows:

(e)(1) With the prior approval of the commission and pursuant to rules adopted by the commission, a franchise holder's patrons with money on deposit in an account with the franchise holder may place wagers by communication through telephone or other mobile device or through other electronic means on races conducted at the franchise holder's race track facility and horse races or greyhound races at other racetracks, whether or not the patron is located on the grounds of the franchise holder's race track facility when placing the wager.

(2) Wagers accepted by the franchise holder under this subsection shall be treated for all purposes under this chapter as a wager made by the patron on the grounds of the franchise holder's race track facility.

SECTION 6. Arkansas Code § 23-111-508(b), concerning wagering at a greyhound racing track, is amended to read as follows:

(b) No other place or method of wagering shall be used or permitted by the franchise holder, unless permitted under subsection (d) or subsection (e) of this section, nor shall the pari-mutuel or certificate system of wagering be conducted on any races except races at the race track where the franchise holder holds a current license issued by the Arkansas Racing Commission.

SECTION 7. Arkansas Code § 23-111-508, concerning wagering at a greyhound racing track, is amended to add an additional subsection to read as follows:

(e)(1) With the prior approval of the commission and pursuant to rules adopted by the commission, a franchise holder's patrons with money on deposit in an account with the franchise holder may place wagers by communication through telephone or other mobile device or through other electronic means on races conducted at the franchise holder's race track facility and horse races or greyhound races at other racetracks, whether or not the patron is located on the grounds of the franchise holder's race track facility when placing the wager.

(2) Wagers accepted by the franchise holder under this subsection shall be treated for all purposes under this chapter as a wager made by the patron on the grounds of the franchise holder's race track facility.

SECTION 8. EMERGENCY CLAUSE. It is found and determined by the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas that the Arkansas Racing Commission's authority to impose certain fees and penalties will expire unless specific statutory authority to assess such fees and penalties is enacted and becomes law; and the Arkansas Racing Commission's power to assess such fees and penalties is imperative to the Arkansas Racing Commission's ability to effectively supervise and regulate, in the public interest, horse racing and greyhound racing in Arkansas. It is further found and determined by the General Assembly of the State of Arkansas that there would be a loss of revenue to the state if wagers on horse racing and greyhound racing are not permitted to be placed by additional forms of communication by patrons of Arkansas horse racing and greyhound racing tracks, whether or not the patron is located on the grounds of the race track facility when placing the wager. Therefore, an emergency is declared to exist and this act being immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health, and safety shall become effective on:

- (1) The date of its approval by the Governor;
- (2) If the bill is neither approved nor vetoed by the Governor, the expiration of the period of time during which the Governor may veto the bill; or
- (3) If the bill is vetoed by the Governor and the veto is overridden, the date the last house overrides the veto."

Subchapter 8 — Arkansas Buy American Act

22-9-801. Title.

This subchapter shall be known and may be cited as the "Arkansas Buy American Act".

22-9-802. Legislative findings — Policy.

(a) The General Assembly finds that:

(1) There are over one hundred (100) steel mills in the United States owned by different companies that engage in extremely stiff price competition to provide steel for the domestic construction industry;

(2) These United States steel mills operate in compliance with rigorous environmental laws and extensive government regulation and pay wages that are well in excess of steel mills operating outside the United States;

(3) Many steel mills operating outside the United States are heavily subsidized by foreign governments, receive the unfair benefit of currency manipulation, and use price manipulation to dump steel products into United States markets at artificially low prices to undercut fair competition;

(4) The production of iron, steel, and construction material consisting wholly or predominantly of iron or steel provides jobs and family income to many individuals in the state and to millions of persons in the United States;

(5) The taxes paid to the state and its political subdivisions by employers and employees engaged in the production and sale of iron, steel, and construction material consisting wholly or predominantly of iron or steel are a large source of public revenues for the state;

(6) The economy and general welfare of the state and its people and the economy and general welfare of the United States are inseparably linked to the preservation and development of manufacturing industries in this state as well as all the other states of this nation; and

(7) The state's procurement policies should reflect this state's and the nation's principles, ensuring that the products of these companies and the workers who abide by the state's workplace safety and environmental laws and regulations are rewarded with a preferential consideration in government contracting.

(b) It is therefore declared to be the policy of the state that all public officers and public entities should aid and promote the economy of the state and the United States by requiring a preference for the procurement of iron, steel, and construction material consisting wholly or predominantly of iron or steel produced in the United States in all contracts for the construction, reconstruction, alteration, or improvement of public buildings and public works.

22-9-803. Definitions.

As used in this subchapter:

(1) "Executive head" means the senior elected or appointed management official of a public entity;

(2) "Manufactured in the United States" means that:

(A) The construction material is assembled or processed into its final form in the United States; and

(B) Substantially all of the iron and steel included in the construction material is produced in the United States regardless of the origin of the elements of the iron or steel or where any metallurgical processes involving the refinement of steel additives occur;

(3) "Predominantly" means more than fifty percent (50%) of the materials subject to this subchapter based on cost;

(4) "Produced in the United States" means that:

(A) The iron and steel is melted and poured in the United States; and

(B) All subsequent processing of the iron and steel takes place in the United States, including without limitation casting, rolling, pickling, oiling, annealing, and coating with value-added materials;

(5)(A) "Public building or public works" means a structure, building, highway, waterway, street, bridge, transit system, municipal utility system, airport, or other betterment, work, or improvement regardless of whether it is of a permanent or temporary nature and whether it is for governmental or proprietary use.

(B) "Public building or public works" includes without limitation a railway, street railway, subway, elevated and monorail passenger rolling stock, passenger and rail rolling stock, self-propelled car, gallery car, locomotive, passenger bus, rail, track, roadbed, guide way, elevated structure, building, school, hospital, station, terminal, dock, shelter, and wire, pole, and other equipment for the electrification of a transit system, carried out directly by a public entity or carried out with funding provided by a public entity to serve the interest of the general public;

(6) "Public entity" means the state, a department, agency, board, and commission of the state, and a political subdivision of the state, including without limitation a city, county, institution of higher education, and school district;

(7) "Substantially all" means at least eighty percent (80%) of the materials subject to this subchapter based on cost; and

(8) “United States” means the United States of America and all territory, continental or insular, subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of America.

22-9-804. Requirement that products used in public buildings or public works be manufactured in the United States — Exceptions — Notice.

(a) Each contract for the construction, reconstruction, alteration, or improvement of a public building or public works made by a public entity shall require that construction materials comprised wholly or predominantly of iron or steel, or both, that are used or supplied in the performance of the contract or a subcontract of the contract be manufactured in the United States.

(b) The requirement stated in subsection (a) of this section may be waived if the executive head finds that:

(1) The application of subsection (a) of this section would not be in the best interests of the state because it would not serve the policy of the state under § 22-9-802;

(2) The construction materials comprised wholly or predominantly of iron or steel, or both, are not produced in the United States in sufficient and reasonably available quantities of a satisfactory quality; or

(3) Inclusion of construction materials comprised wholly or predominantly of iron or steel, or both, that are manufactured in the United States will increase the cost of the construction materials comprised wholly or predominantly of iron or steel, or both, by more than twenty-five percent (25%).

(c) If an executive head issues a waiver under subsection (b) of this section, the executive head shall publish a detailed justification for the waiver that:

(1) Summarizes the information available to the executive head concerning the request, including without limitation whether the request is being made under subdivision (b)(1), subdivision (b)(2), or subdivision (b)(3) of this section;

(2) Is published prominently on the official public website of the public entity;

and

(3) Is provided by electronic means to each person or legal entity that has submitted a written or electronic request to the public entity for notice of waiver actions by the executive head within five (5) years before the date of notice.

(d) This section does not apply to the following:

(1) A construction material or manufactured product that does not consist wholly or predominantly of iron or steel, or both; or

(2) A contract for the construction, reconstruction, alteration, or improvement of a public building or public works made by a public entity in an amount less than twenty thousand dollars ($20,000).

(e) This section:

(1) Does not apply to the extent it is in conflict with any applicable treaty, law, agreement, or regulation of the United States; and

(2) Shall be applied in a manner consistent with the state’s obligations under any existing international agreement pertaining to government procurement.

22-9-805. Violations — Penalties.

(a) It is a violation of this subchapter if a contractor who is awarded a contract that is subject to the requirements of this subchapter intentionally:

(1) Affixes a label bearing a “Made in America” inscription, or any inscription with the same meaning, to iron, steel, or construction material consisting wholly or predominantly of iron or steel that was:

(A) Used in a project to which this subchapter applies; and

(B) Not manufactured in the United States; or

(2) Misrepresents that the iron, steel, or construction material consisting wholly or predominantly of iron or steel, or both, used in a project to which this subchapter applies was manufactured in the United States.

(b) A contractor does not violate this subchapter if the contractor in good faith:

(1) Relies on a written bid submitted by a subcontractor or supplier certifying that materials included the bid comply with this subchapter; or

(2) Uses the materials specified in the bid in performing the contract.

(c) If a public entity determines that a contractor violated this subchapter under subsection (a) of this section, the public entity may invoke one (1) or more of the following remedies after reasonable notice to the contractor and opportunity for the contractor to have a hearing in accordance with the hearing procedures under the Arkansas Administrative Procedure Act, § 25-15-201 et seq., or any other hearing procedures that apply to administrative adjudications by the public entity:

(1) Require the removal and replacement of the unauthorized foreign iron or steel;

(2) Reduce the amount paid on the contract by the cost of the unauthorized foreign iron or steel;

(3) Suspend the contractor for a period not exceeding one (1) year;

(4) Void the contract; and

(5) Pursue any other remedy provided by law.

22-9-806. Promulgation of rules — Authorization — Scope.

(a) The following may each promulgate rules necessary to implement this subchapter with respect to contracts for the construction, reconstruction, alteration, or improvement of public buildings or public works that are subject to their respective jurisdictions:

(1) Arkansas State Highway and Transportation Department;

(2) Arkansas State Game and Fish Commission;

(3) Arkansas Teacher Retirement System;

(4) Arkansas Building Authority; and

(5) Division of Public Schools Academic Facilities and Transportation.

(b) The Office of State Procurement may promulgate rules necessary to implement this subchapter with respect to contracts for commodity purchases that are subject to its jurisdiction.
