20

SECTION 1. DO NOT CODIFY. Legislative findings.

21

The General Assembly finds that:

22

(1) Hepatitis C virus infection is the most common blood-borne
23 infection in the United States;

24

(2) Public health professionals recommend Hepatitis C virus
25 screening for all adults, including pregnant women;

26

(3) Hepatitis C virus screening is recommended for all pregnant
27 women during each pregnancy, except in settings where the prevalence of 28 Hepatitis C virus infection is less than one-tenth percent (0.1%);

29

(4) Pregnant mothers who have Hepatitis C virus can pass the
30 virus that causes the disease to the baby during childbirth, whether the baby
31 is delivered vaginally or through caesarean section, in five to ten percent
32 (5-10%) of the cases;

33

(5) Hepatitis C virus infected infants require treatment that
34 can be given at three (3) years of age and is effective in greater than 35 ninety-five percent (95%) of cases;

36

(6) Untreated, chronic infection in infants can lead to

1 cirrhosis or scarring of the liver in one eight-tenths percent (1.8%) of
2 children between two (2) and nine (9) years of age as well as hepatocellular
3 carcinoma; and

4 (7) Pregnancy is an opportune time for women to receive a
5 Hepatitis C virus screening while simultaneously receiving other prenatal
6 screening and testing that is currently mandated by law.
