

In Arkansas when more community based services are provided in local communities the number of youth committed to the DHS Division of Youth Services tends to decrease.

